Arturo Alvarez Cabana Pendant

Arturo Alvarez Cabana Pendant was created by Spanish designer, Isaac Piñeiro. The inspiration for this canopy-styled pendant is the Galician cabins, also known as cabanas. The pendants are made using the 3D knitting process which is a technique that's commonly used in the textile industry but has never been applied to lighting before. The frame is constructed from aluminium with the fabric draped over allowing gravity to do the rest. The diffused parchment allows the shade to take its shape by its weight.

The Cabana Pendant was designed for Arturo Alvarez and is available in two sizes and two colourways: beige and orange. The versatile shade can be hung in many places such as a lounge, atrium, bedroom or dining room.
