BL1 Table Lamp by Bestlite

The BL1 table lamp was first designed in 1930 by Robert Dudley Best and is still an iconic and world-renowned lamp today. A true epitome of the Bauhaus movement and classic British design this table lamp is well-known for being used by Winston Churchill at Whitehall in London. According to historical accounts he also took it around the world with him which is understandable as it is both beautiful and functional!

The BL1 table light has an elegant and sophisticated aesthetic and also is adjustable in many ways. The arm can bend and swivel and the height can be adjusted by sliding the arm up and down the pole. The lampshade can also be moved to direct the light where needed and emits a nice, welcoming glow to create a lovely atmosphere. This table lamp is a staple in lighting design and is so versatile that it can be used on desks, tables and side tables in offices, bedrooms, lounges and many more settings.

This table light is available with either a brass, chrome, black brass base and then a variety of shade finishes so you can find the right look for your space. Do not miss out on this timeless and iconic lamp that has remained current for 90 years!
