BL9 Pendant Light by Bestlite

A part of the Bestlite collection, the BL9 pendant light was designed in 1930 by Robert Dudley Best and has since enjoyed international acclaim. A staple in design history, the light can be found in museums in London and is lauded as the first example of the Bauhaus movement in Britain. Characterised by clean, elegant lines and a stunning aesthetic, this pendant light truly embodies the ethos of the era and is instantly iconic. Now available in 3 sizes, the BL9 pendant produces a downward directed light that is soft and welcoming, perfect for both creating a nice atmosphere and as a spotlight over tables and surfaces.

The choice of size makes this pendant versatile as you can use a several in the small size to put in rows or use the biggest size as your main feature light. Whether you want to line your kitchen island or have a flawless central lounge light, this pendant light will not disappoint and will attract attention instantly. This light is available with a variety of base and shade colours to find the perfect match for your interior design.
