VV Cinquanta Suspension Light by Astep

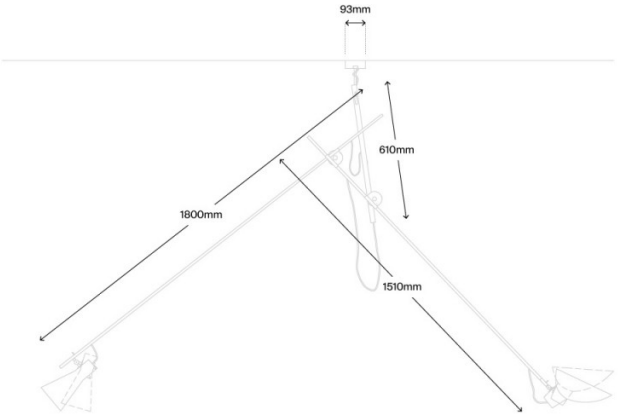

The VV Cinquanta pendant was designed by Vittoriano Viganó in 1951 whilst he was still Art Director for the iconic Arteluce brand. An innovative light, the suspension features a double-stemmed structure that has full mobility. The arms can move up and down, and the lampshades have flexibility to direct the light where needed. Each lampshade also has a distinct shape and silhouette, creating variety and an intriguing aesthetic in any room.

The Cinquanta suspension light comes in several colours, with the choice between a black or brass structure and various lampshade colour combinations. The stunning Mondrian colour finish also brings the bright primary colours that featured throughout Piet Mondrian's art, adding a touch of history to the already classic pendant lamp. Use in homes, offices and commercial spaces for a unique functional solution.

This pendant lamp is dimmable as it is mains wired but also comes with an on/off switch on one of the shades for quick ease of use.
