Gubi Timberline Floor Lamp

The Gubi Timberline Floor Lamp is a masterpiece of 1970s Scandinavian design, crafted by the renowned Danish designer Mads Caprani. Instantly recognisable for its sinuous swan-necked stem, composed of layers of oak and birch, this floor lamp combines organic elegance with bold architectural form. The canvas pleated shade, Caprani's hallmark, diffuses light beautifully, creating a warm and inviting atmosphere in any room.

Named after the treeline where nature transitions from trees to rock, the Timberline Floor Lamp reflects Caprani's fascination with natural boundaries and contrasts. Its design juxtaposes the flowing wooden stem with a solid cast-iron base, resulting in a visually striking and perfectly balanced piece. The inset cord and adjustable shade further showcase Caprani's meticulous attention to detail and functionality.

Reintroduced to a new generation of design enthusiasts, the Timberline has become a favourite once again, celebrated for its ability to fit seamlessly into a variety of interiors, from minimalist Scandinavian spaces to eclectic, bohemian settings. Its enduring charm and quality make it more than a lamp, it's a sculptural statement piece.
