Gubi Satellite Wall / Ceiling Lamp

The Gubi Satellite Wall / Ceiling Lamp is an iconic piece of mid-century design by Hungarian designer Mathieu Matégot. First introduced in 1953, this bold and playful light is a testament to Matégot's innovative use of materials, particularly his invention of Rigitulle, a perforated metal sheet shaped with the fluidity of fabric. The result is a lamp that combines transparency, weightlessness, and sculptural elegance.

With its distinctive "balloons on a string" aesthetic, the Satellite Lamp brings character and charm to any interior. The dual Rigitulle shades are balanced on sculptural metal arms, allowing the lamp to cast a striking interplay of light and shadow. Designed for versatility, the lamp can be wall or ceiling-mounted, making it an ideal statement piece for residential, hospitality, or corporate spaces.

Available in creamy white, soft black, or a combination of both, the Satellite Lamp offers timeless appeal and a touch of modernist artistry to any room.
