Marset Sips Portable LED Table Lamp

Marset Sips Portable LED Table Lamp is a slim rechargeable lamp by Christophe Mathieu, made for tables where a cable would get in the way. The opaque shade sends the light downwards, giving enough light for food, drinks, and evening use without making the table feel too bright. Its wider base helps keep the lamp steady, and the touch switch is built into the base for simple control.

Sips is lightweight and easy to move between rooms or tables, making it useful at home as well as in restaurants, bars, hotels, patios, and terraces. The IP43 rating means it can be used outdoors in suitable covered or sheltered settings. White is paired with a Silver stem for a cleaner look, while Brown and Green are both paired with a Gold stem for a warmer contrast.

The integrated LED gives a warm 2700K light, with three dimming levels to adjust the output depending on the setting. At full brightness, the battery lasts up to 5 hours, extending to 10 hours at half power and 20 hours on the lowest setting, with a charging time of around 10 hours. Most suited to dining tables, bedside tables, shelves, terraces, balconies, restaurants, hotels, and bars where a small portable lamp can add direct table light without glare.

Please Note: The Marset Sips Portable LED Table Lamp ships with only a USB-C charging cable. No wall plug is included.
