Nemo Lighting Lampe Cabanon Table Lamp

Lampe Cabanon, designed by French architect Le Cobusier, is named after the Cabanon building, now a Unesco World Heritage site, that the architect built on the shores of the French Riviera in 1952. This lamp represents a moment of rebirth in the post-war world. The original lamp, for which designs and sketches still exist, was made from tracing paper, and a wartime artifact found on French beaches.

The Nemo Lighting Lampe Cabanon Table Lamp has a tracing paper shade which is locked between three black galvanised metal prongs and secured to a metal base. The stunning table lamp looks great in a cosy living room setting and for creating a relaxing mood.
