Normann Copenhagen Puff Floor Lamp

Normann Copenhagen's Puff Floor Lamp was designed by Seska Huebner and is a celebration of one of the oldest Asian traditions of lamp making: rice paper shades, which have been used for centuries and were initially displayed in temples. Designer Huebner's trip to Japan originally sparked the idea for the Puff Collection. She saw several variations of the rice paper shades, inspiring her to create the perfect Puff shapes. The Puff floor lamp was designed to balance sculptural playfulness and functional minimalism.

Puff Floor Lamp delivers a soft, gentle illumination to enrich your residential or commercial environment. With its height of 153.5cm, the Puff Floor Lamp can be displayed perfectly in the corner of a living area creating a cosy and light ambience. The shape and organic structure give this floor lamp the versatility to suit all areas while the rice paper shade allows for an even muted glow as it hides the light source from being too bright and overexposed.
