Tom Raffield Mooring Floor Lamp

Tom Raffield's Mooring Floor Light beautifully balances form and function. The refreshingly simplistic design creates a striking profile while the exposed bulb emits a bright, welcoming light that surrounds the luminaire. Traditional techniques blend with industrial aesthetics to create a lamp with both substance and style. The oak frame is steam-bent to create the natural-looking curve of wood. This process allows the otherwise sturdy timber to be bent and flexed into organic-looking shapes. A brass fitting houses an exposed bulb, an industrial element that contrasts against the natural wooden frame. When illuminated, the uninterrupted glow surrounds the lamp in a bright and welcoming glow, filling the room with light.

The Mooring Floor Light is available in a natural oak finish, a wood popular with furniture and lighting designs due to its durability. Over time the hue of the oak will darken and mellow slightly. Display in a lounge area amongst other wood types such as walnut or ash to create a dynamic space with a warm and sleek aesthetic. Pair with the Mooring Table Light for a cohesive display in either domestic or commercial spaces.
