PRODUCT DESCRIPTION

Designer: Tom Raffield

Tom Raffield Skipper Flush Ceiling Light

The Skipper Ceiling Light is designed by Tom Raffield and expertly crafted from his studio in Cornwall. The design features twenty pieces of timber which are steam-bent into Tom Raffield's signature curves. The intertwining timber partially encloses the light source within, casting pockets of light around it. Strong shadows and beams of light play on the ceiling above, while the room is filled with atmospheric lighting. Tom Raffield frequently uses these woods in his designs as he finds they yield the best results when steam-bent. The choice of different hues of wood ensures that you will find the perfect shade to fit your décor.

Each shade is finished with an eco-friendly varnish that seals the grain and brings out the wood's rich tones and natural beauty. The Skipper Ceiling Light is available in two sizes and can be displayed individually to illuminate a dining room table or in rows, running the length of a hallway. Display with the Hanter Table Light to create an impactful contrast, allowing the straightforward simplicity of the Hanter to highlight the complexity of the Skipper's sculptural design.
