Tom Raffield Skipper Wall Light

The Skipper Wall Light is part of Tom Raffield's Skipper Collection, one of the studio's first designs. The iconic range is an integral part of Tom Raffield's designs and is instantly recognisable to collectors of his work. Inspired by nature and shapes seen in the world around us, the Skipper Wall Light is abstract, bold, and impactful. The intertwining petals of wood partially enclose the light source, allowing pockets of light to be cast out against the surrounding walls. The shade gives out light and shadow in equal measure, creating a display that is captivating to look at.

The Skipper Wall Light is available in ash, oak, or walnut. Ash is the lightest of the finishes, and its luminosity allows light to permeate through the wooden petals, bringing a sense of life to the wood. The warm tones of oak offer versatility, with its bright hues complementing a range of interiors. Walnut has a much deeper, rich tone that creates an eye-catching contrast against neutral decors. Each wall light is finished with an eco-friendly varnish which seals the grain and brings out the wood's natural beauty and gives each piece more depth. The Skipper Wall Light complements hallways, bedrooms, and living rooms, adding a cosy ambiance to the space. The Scandinavian-inspired design is perfect for creating an impactful display in compact living interiors.
