Tom Raffield Noctis Mooring Floor Lamp

The Noctis Mooring Floor Light is an ebonised wood version of Tom Raffield's Mooring Floor Light. The iconic range takes on a new, bold aesthetic after the steam-bent wood is ebonised to create darker tones. The natural texture of the wood softens the appearance of the Noctis, bringing softness and balance to the design. Its profile is sleek, contemporary, and free from any clutter. A single exposed bulb hangs from a textile cord, its brass fittings contrasting with the dark wood. The uninterrupted light is cast into the surrounding space, filling the room with bright, ambient lighting.

The natural-looking curve at the head of the frame is achieved by steam-bending the wood, a process that Tom Raffield is renowned for. This low-energy and low-waste process aligns with Raffield's eco-friendly ethos, allowing the studio to create as small a carbon footprint as possible. The wood is finished with an eco-friendly varnish that brings out the beauty of the wood while sealing and protecting the grain. Display the Noctis Mooring Floor Light in a space that requires functional lighting such as a study or lounge. Create contrast and variety by displaying the floor light in a brightly decorated space, letting the Noctis give the predominantly light room a bold edge.
