Tom Raffield Noctis Skipper Pendant

The Noctis Skipper Pendant is Tom Raffield's darker adaptation of his popular Skipper Pendant. Like the original, each pendant is made from 20 pieces of timber, made to measure and expertly bent and twisted into the overlapping form of the shade. The Noctis Edition features ebonised wood for a much deeper, richer finish. When illuminated, the dark wood glows golden while the outer pieces left in the shadows remain black, creating a captivating contrast. The Noctis Skipper partially encloses the light source in its centre. When lit, the undulating loops of wood cast pockets of light through gaps in the shade, creating a striking pattern against the surrounding walls.

The Noctis Skipper is available in two sizes, adding adaptability depending on the space in which they are required. In smaller rooms, such as above a dining table, a single small pendant is an ideal lighting solution for illuminating the space while creating a welcoming ambience. For larger rooms or commercial spaces, bigger installations can be made with clusters of pendants of different sizes and varying heights to create a stunning sculptural display.

Please Note: This pendant light is supplied with a brass socket and ceiling canopy with a black cable as standard. Other options are available, please contact us for more information and pricing.
