Tom Raffield Stem Table Lamp

The Stem Table Lamp's understated appearance perfectly balances form and function. Each piece is expertly handcrafted in Tom Raffield's Cornish studio and steam-bent to achieve the stem's smooth curve. This low-waste, low-tech method is used as it allows the studio to produce sculptural pieces while staying in line with their mission to create products responsibly. As an eco-conscious company, Tom Raffield also ensures that the timber used in their designs is always sustainably sourced.

The exposed flex and brass detailing offer a striking contrast against the natural grains of the wood. The warm tones of oak suit a range of interiors, both modern and traditional. Due to its timeless finish, oak remains a popular choice in interior design. When illuminated, the Stem Table Lamp is basked in a warm, ambient glow. Light permeates the wooden shade, highlighting the unique grains of the oak. The glare-free, downward directional lighting is well suited for task lighting on a desk or a side table as a reading light. Complete the look with the Stem Floor Lamp and Stem Wall Light for a unifying theme.
