Nuura Asteea LED Ceiling Light

The Asteea Ceiling Light is a sculptural piece, inspired by the shape of a bellflower. Designer Sofie Refer seamlessly blends a golden metal frame with a delicate rippled shade to create a striking contrast of warmth and strength. An integrated LED protrudes from the shade, giving the appearance of a flower's stamen and adding to the natural aesthetic of the light. The rippled effect on the shade disperses light into a dynamic play of light and shadow around the shade, while bathing the surrounding ceiling in a warm glow.

The Asteea Ceiling Light sits flush to the ceiling, making it an ideal space-saving lighting solution for rooms of any size. If required, the LED can be replaced. Display the Asteea Ceiling Light individually in the centre of a room to create a simple yet elegant feature. Alternatively, long hallways can be illuminated by installing the Asteea in rows. The indirect, soft lighting paired with the Asteea's discreet size makes it perfect for entrance halls, lounge areas, or in rooms with low ceilings.
