Design For The People Takai Floor Lamp

The Design For The People Takai Floor Lamp was designed by Sofie Lefevre and combines an elegant textile drum shade with a slender burnished brass structure. The inspiration for Takai came from brutalist architecture, and Lefevre wanted to design a series of lights that focus on materials, textures and tactility. The result is a luxurious floor lamp that is a beautiful addition to living rooms, dining areas, entryways and even bedrooms in residential properties. The Takai floor Lamp also adds a sophisticated touch to hotels.

Takai produces a softly diffused illumination that is fed through the sides of the shade but also escapes through the top and bottom of the drum, generating a more even illumination. This floor lamp by Design For The People uniquely combines functionality and aesthetics. With a height of 150cm, it fits perfectly into any room where you want to add a touch of warmth.
