Marset Lauro Table Lamp

The Marset Lauro Table Lamp reintroduces a confident 1970s silhouette for modern interiors, with the kind of practical adjustability that makes it more than a visual statement. The shade rotates and adjusts in height along the stem, so you can pull the light closer for reading, angle it across a desk, or soften it for evening ambience on a sideboard. It is a strong option for home workspaces and reading corners, and it also suits studios, libraries and lounges where you want a piece that feels intentional but still does a job.

Finish options pair a dark brown or chromed steel structure with either an opal diffuser for a more diffused glow or a black shade for a more directed beam. Lauro uses an E27 bulb and features an on-off switch integrated, with a 250cm cable for flexible placement. Display it as a standalone feature, or use it in pairs to frame a sofa, console, or desk setting.
