Sklo Hold Pendant

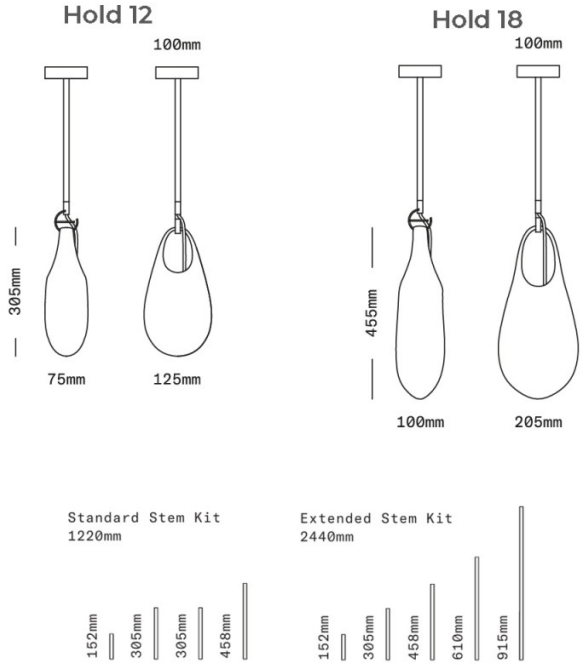

The Sklo Hold Pendant combines expressive hand-blown glass with considered brass detailing. Its sculptural glass shade appears to stretch from its hook as though still molten, capturing the fluid character of glass and celebrating the craft of glassblowing. Suspended from a rigid brass tube stem with a brass hook, the pendant maintains a clear visual connection between the glass and its support.

Available in two sizes, the Hold Pendant is handblown by skilled glassblowers, with subtle variations in wall thickness and colour density giving each piece its own character. No two shades are identical, making every pendant a distinctive expression of Sklo's emphasis on the elemental simplicity of glass. Display individually to let the sculptural form take centre stage, or arrange in a group, letting the different finishes between shades create a nuanced composition.

The Hold Pendant includes SkLO's field-adjustable Standard Stem Kit. A field-adjustable Extended Stem Kit is available at an additional cost. See specifications for kit details. Please contact us for more information and pricing.
