Anglepoise Original 1227 Desk Lamp

The Anglepoise Original 1227 Desk Lamp is an icon in British design. Designer and engineer George Carwardine first released the 1227 lamp in 1932, introducing the 3-spring mechanism that is still used today. This mechanism allows the lamp to be angled and positioned with a light touch for ultimate flexibility and perfect balance. The base is crafted from iron with a steel cover to ensure durability and sturdiness.

The Original 1227 Desk Lamp boasts an unmistakable profile that is recognised worldwide. Available in multiple colourways, the 1227 is a timeless lamp that adds a bold personality to any interior. The new Opal Blue and Black colourway, inspired by the first Anglepoise lamps from the 1930s, builds on the brand's legacy, resulting in a finish that feels both familiar and newly refined. Producing focused task lighting, the 1227 is well-suited for home, work or study, providing the perfect balance between style and functionality. Display throughout the home with other pieces from the Original 1227 Collection for a cohesive theme that celebrates classic British design.
