Marset Ginger P LED Floor Lamp

Marset Ginger P LED Floor Lamp is an upright floor lamp by Joan Gaspar, using the thin circular shade found across the Ginger collection. The diffuser is made from sheets of wood, paper, and resin compacted under high pressure, creating a slim shade with the warmth of natural oak or wenge. The light source is hidden beneath the shade, so the lamp gives reflected light rather than a direct exposed LED.

The P version has a simple vertical stem and pressed wood base, making it more compact than the XL 42 and XXL 60 floor lamps with their extended angled arms. It works well beside a sofa, lounge chair, bed, or reading corner where a floor lamp is useful, but a wide reach is not needed. Oak gives the lamp a lighter, warmer appearance, while Wenge has a darker tone that sits well with deeper wood finishes and more subdued interiors.

Ginger P is plug-in, with a black electrical cord and an in-line dimmer for adjusting the light level. The integrated LED gives warm 2700K light, making the lamp well suited to low, comfortable lighting in residential and hospitality spaces. Most suited to living rooms, bedrooms, reading corners, lounge areas, hotels, restaurants, and interiors where a slim upright floor lamp can provide warm reflected light.
