Designer: Box Arkitekter

Orsjo Belysning PJ50 Ceiling Light.

The PJ50 is a functional and adjustable ceiling light, used for both home and public spaces. This light can be combined and ascended in groups, in different lengths and colours to create more of a statement piece. Ann Morsing and Beban Nord at Box Arkitekter were inspired by the work of PeFeGe Eriksson when developing the PJ collection, they have updated the classic 1940's industrial lamp to meet modern day needs. The PJ50 is still as practical and elegant as the original work lamps were over 60 years ago, but now with the enhancements of modern day technology.

This ceiling light offers all of the benefits of a spotlight, but without the harsh atmosphere. This updated task light can be utilised in private and public spaces. It fits well into varying environments and feels both stylish and practical. The PJ50 is a suitable addition for a great many areas such as your kitchen, workspace and even hallway. In terms of public spaces, this light would be a perfect addition to a reception desk, an office or even a bar.

The ceiling lamp is available in two variants. The PJ50 is the larger version of the PJ52 ceiling light.

The purpose of these task lights is to create a comforting direct light that is perfect for workspaces without being too clinical or harsh. And this is why the PJ collection soon became an office classic. Explore the PJ collection today.
