&Tradition Formakami JH4 Pendant

The Formakami JH4 Pendant is designer Jaime Hayon's playful take on the traditional Asian lantern. The well-considered use of rice paper for the rounded shade captures the essence of Asian design through the lens of Scandinavian minimalism. Black-stained oak rings create a striking contrast and visual break, adding to the JH4's ornamental presence. By breaking away from any cultural restraints, Hayon created a timeless piece that suits both classic and contemporary interiors.

When illuminated, the delicate rice paper diffuses light into a soft glow, creating an inviting and calming ambience. The open bottom casts a wide beam of light downward, perfect for illuminating dining tables, desks, or living areas. In stairwells or large, commercial spaces, create a grand installation using clusters of pendants from the Formakami Collection for a dynamic composition that will leave a lasting impression.
