&Tradition Formakami JH5 Pendant

The &Tradition Formakami JH5 Pendant captures the essence of traditional Asian design through the lens of Scandinavian minimalism. Designer Jaime Hayon drew inspiration from traditional Asian lanterns, utilising rice paper to create a lightweight and delicate pendant. Each pendant is handcrafted and features black-stained oak rings, which act as a visual break through a striking contrast of materials.

The grand size of the Formakami JH5 Pendant, paired with its delicate aesthetic, adds a sculptural presence to any interior. The open bottom casts light downward, while the rice paper shade diffuses light into a warm and comfortable glow. This combination of ambient and functional lighting is perfect for dining rooms, living areas, and bedrooms. Display individually or in multiples for a sense of balance. Alternatively, create large compositions by installing clusters of pendants from the Formakami Collection for a dynamic display that will leave a lasting impression.
