Kartell Kids H-Horse Rocking Horse

Nendo, designer office run by Oki Sato, is behind the design of the H-Horse rocking horse for kids. The concept behind the design is, surprisingly, based on the H beams found in large construction sites. Skyscrapers and bridges require great structural strength and that's where the beams come into place. H-beams are literally 'H' shaped and that is where they take their name from. Nendo took a rather industrial shape and converted it into a playful and youthful design.

The rocking horse is now part of Kartell's collection, and is available in 3 colour choices: crystal/transparent and yellow. Suitable for children, the H-Horse can add colour to the children's room or playroom.
