Tom Dixon Stone LED Pendant Light

The Stone LED Pendant is an elegant and refined luminaire, designed by Tom Dixon. It is made from marble and harkens back to classical architecture, as marble has been used for centuries in design and sculpting. The luminaire also features a chic round fixture within the silhouette which helps to filter the integrated LED light source and produce a softly diffused illumination, this inner fixture is available in a brass finish which results in a warm glow emitted onto the area below.

The Tom Dixon Stone produces a gorgeous ring of light which spreads out and casts playful shadows on its surroundings, it is suitable for many settings and can be displayed alone in smaller spaces or in rows and clusters in larger spaces. You can also match with other lights from the Tom Dixon Stone Collection for a consistent light scheme throughout your interior. The downward-directed illumination makes the Stone Pendant Light perfect for above dining tables, kitchen islands and even bedside tables.
