Here Comes the Sun Mini Pendant Light by DCW éditions

The mini version of the Here Comes the Sun pendant, the light was first created in 1969 with an August 1970 release. The designer, Bertrand Balas, was inspired by the rising sun for his invention and then took the aptly timed release of Here Comes the Sun by The Beatles and used it for the name. The pendant light emulates the warm hues of sunrise with two rounded shapes that reflect the light upwards and downwards.

The Here Comes the Sun mini pendant lamp is perfect for use in small spaces or can be used in larger spaces in multiple or clustered together. The pendant lamp will provide beautiful atmospheric lighting and would also be handy over tables and surfaces thanks to its downward directed glow. Choose from four chic colour combinations or mix and match between the finishes for a more varied look in your interior.
