Here Comes the Sun Pendant Light by DCW éditions

Inspired by the rising sun, designer Bertrand Balas conceived of this pendant light in 1969 with an August 1970 release. Around this time, The Beatles released their famous Abbey Road album featuring the beautiful track Here Comes the Sun. Seeing an opportunity to pay homage to it, Balas decided to name his pendant after the song, proving to be a gorgeous embodiment of sunlight.

The Here Comes the Sun pendant lamp is made from two rounded shapes which are symbiotically connected and reflect the light source to produce an almost magical glow. Available in 4 sizes and 4 colours, the pendant lamp would be a wonderful addition to any interior to provide an effective and mesmerising illumination, whether used alone or in multiple.
