Luceplan Lita Pendant

The Lita Pendant Lights were designed by David Dolcini for Luceplan and consist of hand-blown glass diffusers which are suspended from either a black or brass base, depending on your décor style. The beautiful diffuser comes in four sizes depending on the needs of your space. David Dolchini aimed to create a classic but expressive collection of suspension lights. The rounded surface of the glass diffuser hosts subtle vertical ridges, adding an artistic touch to the design.

Your choice of finish can also personalise the style of the lamp drastically. With a brass finish, the pendant light adds a more classical feel to your space, whereas the painted white adds a more modern touch. The Luceplan Lita Pendant Light can be easily integrated into a multitude of interior design styles.

This minimalist luminaire produces a gentle and even light and can be hung independently or grouped together to create a clustered feature piece, you can even include varying heights. The pendant is a beautiful addition for your lounge, kitchen, above your dining table and public spaces such as restaurants, bars and even offices.
