Warm Nordic Lightsome Floor Lamp

The Lightsome Floor Lamp was designed by Danish designer Svend Aage Holm-Sørensen in 1959. Its metal frame balances elegantly on a three-legged stand. Like many of his designs during this era, The Lightsome features decorative metal detailing. A brass stem connects the shade with the frame, adding an ornate element to the structure. Small grooves around the shade not only add a touch of detail but also allow light to filter through, creating a delicate pattern on the shade. The wide shape of the shade allows light to disperse around the lamp, filling the room with light.

The timeless design of this Scandinavian Floor Lamp has been reintroduced by Warm Nordic, making the classic luminaire available once again. The downward directional light provides excellent task lighting, perfect for placing next to a desk, or beside a sofa as a reading light. The floor lamp can be paired with The Lightsome Wall Light to create a sleek display and celebration Danish lighting and the history of Nordic design.
