Diabolo Pendant Light by Flos

First conceived in 1998, the Diabolo pendant light was designed by Achille Castiglioni and is characterised by two coned structures. The designer was inspired to create a pendant light that could be controlled by a pulley system, allowing the user to adjust the height to suit their needs. The pendant has a cable reel in the upper cone ceiling rose so you can adjust the height from 95cm to 240cm in a simplistic and user friendly way.

The Diabolo pendant is available in 3 distinct colours, glossy cherry red, glossy beaver brown and glossy white, allowing you to find the right match for your design scheme. The pendant lamp will add a modernistic touch to any interior and is useful with a downward directed glow, perfect for use as a main light or for hanging over tables and surfaces.
