Artemide Logico Suspension Light

Artemide Logico Suspension Light reduces the collection to a single suspended form, with a hand-made blown glass diffuser shaped by curves that give the volume a fluid, unsettled edge. Designed by Michele De Lucchi and Gerhard Reichert, it was recognised with the 2002 Red Dot Design Award and remains the clearest expression of the Logico idea.

That soft, irregular body is what gives the fitting its character, but it also shapes the light, producing an effect that feels gentle in the room rather than overly sharp. Available in a Silk diffuser finish, with blown glass and aluminium, it sits within a wider system of sizes and configurations without losing the strength of the single pendant.

Most effective over dining tables, kitchen islands, and in other interior settings where one suspended light can act as both a light source and a focal point.

Please note, this product is also available in a Fumè finish and as a smaller Mini version. Contact us for pricing and information.
