Verpan Panto Pendant

The Verpan Panto Pendant is a decorative lighting design by Verner Panton, originally created in 1977. Built around a crystal-clear transparent acrylic outer sphere, the pendant contains white lacquered aluminium reflectors suspended by three fine steel chains, creating a light, floating expression with a distinctly space-age character. Available in two sizes, 40cm and 50cm, its sculptural globe form makes an eye-catching statement above dining tables, in living rooms, hallways and commercial interiors.

When illuminated, the internal reflectors diffuse the light softly through the acrylic shell, producing a pleasant, atmospheric glow while reducing direct glare. A discreet red detail visible from below adds a classic Panton flourish, bringing a subtle note of colour to the otherwise clean white and transparent composition. Balancing retro-futuristic style with everyday functionality, the Panto Pendant is a refined statement piece for interiors that call for playful, iconic design.
