Enigma Pendant Light by Louis Poulsen

Combining Japanese and Scandinavian design ideals, designer Shoichi Uchiyama first created the Enigma pendant light in 2003, being a new, deconstructed take on the traditional chandelier silhouette. The pendant is characterised by a simple, subtle coned light source with spherical, lightweight shades that are suspended underneath.

From afar, these shades appear to mysteriously float in mid-air which is why the light is aptly named Enigma. The pendant light is available in 2 colour finishes, black or brushed aluminium and 2 sizes, the smaller Ø425 and the larger Ø545. The Enigma pendant emits a soft, downward directed light that is glare-free and reflects and emanates through the lower discs. Suitable for commercial settings and homes, this light looks best over tables and surfaces in kitchens and dining areas.

This pendant is available in a larger size, the Ø825. Please contact us for more information and prices.
