Panthella Floor Lamp by Louis Poulsen

With an updated shade holder, a slight increase in height and suitable for a lower maximum wattage, the newer 2021 version of the Panthella floor lamp keeps all the essence of the original design whilst improving on its functionality and aesthetic value.

Designed by the renowned Verner Panton in 1971, this floor lamp is typical of his style, using an organic shape to create both a functional and decorative lighting piece. The floor light is made from a reflective white material so the light source can reflect off the base and outwards from the shade. What results is a warming glow that is perfect for creating a cosy atmosphere.

The rounded and smooth shape of the Panthella floor light embodies the 70s era, being both modern and classic in its aesthetic. This lamp can be used in many spaces, such as bedrooms, lounges, reception areas and more. Match with other lights from the Louis Poulsen Panthella collection for a room inspired by Panton.
