Dandelion Suspension by Moooi

A lightweight and playful design, the Dandelion suspension light brings a breath of fresh air in any interior. Designed by Richard Hutten for Moooi, the suspension takes its name from the flower known for creating the dandelion snow, when blown from a gust of wind.

The suspension lights emits light in every direction, with an open structure. The floral shapes are made from laser cut aluminium sheets and the light source remains somewhat exposed. A light that takes away the everyday life heaviness and can give the impression that it might be blown away from the wind at any minute. The Dandelion collection also includes a floor lamp, also available in a powder coated white finish.
