Santa & Cole Americana Wall Light

The Americana wall light was designed by Miguel Mila in the 1960s and pays tribute to George Hansen's lighting collection from the 1950s. The lamps were built around a rotating arm and with a swivel in the middle, which separated the horizontal axis in two parts.

Mila took Hansen's design one step further as the Americana has a swing arm that allows for any horizontal movements; you may push away the light or bring it closer to you. This swing motion makes the Americana the perfect reading companion, whether on your bedside or next to your favourite armchair. The structure in a satin nickel finish with a white linen lampshade that creates a diffused and warm glow. The Americana wall lamp is perfect for any residential area as well as contract settings and will look wonderful when used alongside other lights from the Americana collection.
