Santa & Cole Diana Table Lamp

The Diana Table Lamp was designed by architects Alfonson Mila and Federico Correa, with the help of Alfonso's younger brother Miguel, after taking on a commission to revamp the mayor's office in Barcelona. The mayor had just successfully bid for the Olympics in 1992, and knowing that the office was expected to be visited by numerous members of the international political community, he wanted to remind them of the city's high standards in design. The creation of the table lamp was one of many as part of this project and is aptly named after the mayor's wife, Diana.

The Diana Table Lamp is available in two sizes, a smaller Diana Menor and a larger Diana version. The table light is defined by a slim silhouette with a metal body, available in Satin Nickel and Chrome-Plated, and a parchment lampshade, which effectively contrasts against the sleek, metal frame. The Diana Table Lamp's classic silhouette allows it to blend into a wide range of settings, including homes and offices and will add a touch of history to any space. Pair with the Santa & Cole Diana Floor Lamp for a seamless lighting scheme throughout your interior.
